News

A sincere thanks to the six boys who turned up for church parade yesterday. The rest of this paragraph therefore does not affect them. It affects those who couldn't be bothered to turn up yesterday. I must say that I was disappointed to say the least that this represents only a third of our company strength, and compared to the girls brigade we looked very sorry indeed. This begs the question what are we in the BB for? That is a question that I sometimes find myself asking, and after yesterdays performance I am struggling to find an answer. Ok, the obvious one is that we don't like sitting in Church. Well, I'm sorry, but tough. In life we all have to sometimes do things we find not as interesting as others, but if we want to belong to an organisation then we have to abide by its rules. If you don't want to abide by these, then clearly you do not want to put in the effort to belong. I know that some boys occasionally have prior engagements, be they family or schoolwork, and that is understandable and accepted, but a phone call out of courtesy wouldn't go amiss.

Please ask yourself the question 'Do I want to belong?' and if the answer is yes, then I expect to see you turning up for parades in uniform and on time. If however the answer is no, then I am sure that there are other organisations where a slap dash attitude is accepted. Not in the Second Enfield.
